

Your Donations Always Stay Within the Community

Rescued food travels an average of 11 minutes between the donor and receiving non-profit

When matching your donation with a receiving non-profit we take into account the type of food donated and the schedules of donors and receiving non-profits.

Sometimes donations travel past the closest non-profit but we're confident they have the best impact possible.

Donating surplus food is quick and simple

ICT Food Rescue will work with you to find the best time and method for transporting your donations. While it may not be possible to donate all surplus food, every donation helps!

Join Our Movement!

ICT Food Rescue is part of the global Food Rescue US initiative. We are extremely proud to be the first to bring the food rescue movement in the midwestern region!

ICT Food Rescue seeks to support nonprofits who support food security by providing transportation for donated food & matching non-profits to donated food that best meets their needs.

The USDA estimates that

31%

of post-production food

GOES INTO THE TRASH!

Food Waste at Retail and Consumer Levels (2013)

That's 14%
of our neighbors!

Feeding America also estimated that 71,780 food insecure individuals live right here in Sedgwick County in 2016.

How ICT Food Rescue Works

1.

ICT Food Rescue works with donors & receiving non-profits to create a pickup schedule on the Food Rescue US mobile app that works for everyone's operations.

2.

All rescued food is transported by volunteer food runners to receiving non-profits in the local area.

3.

These non-profits then distribute the food to their target populations.

The movement is driven by technology and volunteers in the local community

DID YOU KNOW?

The Bill Emerson Good Samaritan Act passed into law by Congress in 1997 states that donors are protected from both civil and criminal liability when donating food in good faith to a non-profit organization even if the donated food later causes harm to a recipient. This law was created to encourage the donation of food and grocery products.
